Dersin Koordinatörü:	Belma ÖZTÜRKAL
Dersin Amacı:	The objective of this course is to analyze the role of financial institutions in allocating resources, managing risk, and exerting corporate governance over firms. Special attention is given to the importance of financial regulation and its effects on the efficiency of financial markets.
Dersin İçeriği:	This course first explains how the interest rates are determined, the risk and term structure of interest rates, and their roles in pricing securities. Then it shows how the central banks influence interest rates. Next economic principles are used to examine the emergence and impact of financial institutions on economic growth and stability. The importance of the regulation of financial intermediaries is examined, taking into account both the economic and the political forces which shape policy decisions. Besides familiarizing students with different components of national financial systems, the class uses the economics of information to understand the functioning of financial institutions. The class intends to provide an international perspective on the emergence, operation, impact, and regulation of financial institutions. An international perspective is stressed because examples from countries with different legal, political, and regulatory regimes provide a richer understanding of the role of financial institutions.
